“Thankful For You!”

While we are often quick to give thanks to God for the material blessings we enjoy, how often do we remember to be thankful for our brothers and sisters in Christ? For example, read the closing chapter of Romans and reflect on the language Paul uses to mention other Christians who were precious to him. Epaenetus, Amplias and Stachys were “my beloved” (Romans 16:5,8,9). Tryphena and Tryphosa “have labored in the Lord” (Romans 16:12); Mary had “labored much for us” (Romans 16:6); the beloved Persis “labored much in the Lord” (Romans 16:12). Paul acknowledged Urbanus as “our fellow worker in Christ” (Romans 16:9) and Rufus as “chosen in the Lord” (Romans 16:13). When was the last time we used any of these expressions to show our appreciation for a brother or sister in Christ? I very much would like to say that such descriptions I could use for many of you. I do appreciate very much your fellowship and your encouragement. Thank you for all the kind words this week.

The Birth of the Bible

It’s difficult to fix a date when the Bible was written or began to be written. Believing that Moses lived around 1500 BC, the books attributed to his authorship would have been written sometime in the second half of the fifteenth century, with redactions throughout the centuries (cf. Num. 12:3; Deut. 34:5–6). However, the book of Job is believed to have been written in the second millennium BC, or it at least is about that period if it was written later. To put it in perspective, Job is believed to have been a patriarch akin to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob in their time.

Regarding what’s extant, the tenth-century BC potsherd known as Khirbet Qeiyafa ostrakon is the eldest. This dates to the reign of King David and was found on the north side of the valley of Elah (1 Sam. 17:1–3). Differing interpretations as to what it says exists, so to suggest it is Scripture may not be altogether true. However, this discovery also can’t be ruled out as unreflective of Scripture. The Ketef Hinnom amulets, however, are among the oldest discoveries that contain language akin to the priestly blessing of Numbers 6:24–26 and date to the seventh century BC. Since many scholars believe that the Old Testament is primarily a product of Israel’s post-exilic period, these two finds cast that conclusion into doubt, given the language they each demonstrate.

Behind these fragmentary pieces, the Dead Sea Scrolls are the oldest full-manuscript evidence of our Old Testament. They are a collection of over 900 manuscripts discovered around Qumran from 1947–56. Copies of every Old Testament book except for Nehemiah and Esther were found in 11 caves around the Dead Sea, and the oldest dates to the third century BCE. Before this discovery, the Leningrad Codex was the oldest Old Testament manuscript, dating to AD 1008. Scholars compared the two texts, being greater than a millennium apart, and found that little had changed. This attests to the accuracy of the Hebrew Bible transmission. The notion supported by agnostic scholar Bart Ehrman that we can’t fully trust Scripture because of the lack of original copies is a bit of a farce when one considers the accuracy between these two texts.

Library Blood River

E. Bailey

Anyone who has roots in southeast Calloway County or northeast Henry County will likely have ancestors who were members of the Blood River Church of Christ, established in 1842. At one point in the 19th century, Blood River was probably the largest single congregation in this entire area.

Several years ago, Don Fodge, a member at Blood River, took on the tremendous task of gathering all the information he could on the history of this church and his book of some 282 pages was published in 2012.

Fodge's book contains information on hundreds of folks who were members of this church over the 180 year time span that he covers. The book number in our library is 286.6/Fod/2012.
