SCHEDULE CHANGE

Please help spread the word to members of the community who might visit with us on our Sunday evening Singing Night that the February Singing will be February 15th. I know so many people look forward this monthly singing night. We are so blessed to have Derek's leadership with his wonderful talent and willingness to serve. We are truly blessed by him!

Chapter sixteen, except verses 16–17, is unique to Luke. The main thrust of the entire chapter is wealth (16:14) and is directed at the Pharisees. The initial parable, however, is a little tricky. Remembering that the previous chapter is about forgiveness, this parable should be read with both forgiveness and wealth in mind. The point may not be to praise the seemingly unethical transactions so much as to demonstrate worldly forgiveness and how it's juxtaposed with divine forgiveness.

Unlike the parable of the prodigal son, this one is about an estate manager who “squandered his property” (16:1). This phrase is the same used of the son in 15:13. The manager would not dig and was too prideful. The son fed swine and humbled himself to return to his father. Then, shrewdly, he makes plans for his termination. He calls the debtors, asks what they owe, and offers them a discount to ensure they will be welcomed upon dismissal. The master, seeing this, applauds his ingenuity even though it was at a personal cost. He figures, “This guy will do anything he needs to, so maybe I should keep him after all.” Worldly people use riches self-interestedly, but children of light are more concerned with laying up their treasures in heaven. The children of light receive their homes, while worldly people’s eternal homes are those just like them. One either serves God or wealth.

After the Pharisees ridicule him, he addresses their self-centered motives. This is a repudiation of our modern-day prosperity gospel preaching. They believed that their wealth was an indication of God’s blessing on them. However, Jesus uses language from the Hebrew scriptures to repudiate their perspective (1 Sam. 16:7; Prov. 30:12–14; Is. 5:21). Priding themselves on loving the law and prophets, Jesus shows a marked transition from them to the good news of the kingdom of God. Those entering the kingdom by force may have referred to those such as the Zealots, who sought to bring about the messianic age through military and political prowess. The law remains valid, and one provision concerned marriage—something he may have known was commonly understood the opposite way. He may even have directed that at some point, given their character and life choices.

Enter S. H. Dees # 2

With the passing of Samuel Henry Dees and his Wife, Eliza Ann in the early 1920s, nine churches in the Hazel & Murray areas were bequeathed either cash or bank stock.

Churches receiving a thousand dollars were 1st Christian, First Methodist, 1st Baptist, Water Street Church of Christ, Green Plain Church of Christ & Hazel Church of Christ. Churches receiving bank stock were Hazel Baptist, Hazel Methodist & South Pleasant Grove Methodist.

The thousand dollars that Water Street received in 1923 is said to be the equivalent of $ 18, 954.00 in 2026. This amount of money, together with the property that Abe Thompson donated a few years previous may have been the two gifts that enabled the struggling young church to survive and to make several much-needed improvements to the building in 1927.

The generosity of the Thompson & Dees families cannot be over emphasized in an era when a good Sunday's offering at Water Street was often no more than $5.00!!!!
